

Transition

THE CHANCE TO RECOVER, FREE FROM FINANCIAL WORRIES!

Coping with illness

Your home is one of the biggest investments of your life. If you were suffering from a critical illness, would you be able to keep paying off your mortgage, despite a loss of income?

We're here so you can take care of yourself

Transition critical illness insurance provides financial assistance that's easy to apply for, and that helps you focus on recovery, without having to worry about your finances.

No matter when it happens, being diagnosed with critical illness does not have to be overwhelming. Rest assured, Transition is designed for you!

Alex is a 38-year-old father. He recently had to have his left leg and left arm amputated, after a serious car accident.

His critical illness insurance allowed him to keep making his mortgage payments, to cover unexpected costs, and to hire some temporary help for household maintenance.

His wife was also able to take some unpaid time off to take care of him after his surgery.

What is critical illness insurance for?

Because the benefit is paid in a lump sum and is not taxable, you can decide the best way to use this financial assistance:

- Make sure you're still able to cover your financial obligations, such as your mortgage payment, despite a loss of income
- Cover your other financial responsibilities
- Ensure a source of income during the recovery period
- Give your partner the freedom to take some time off to stay by your side
- Make renovations to your home in case of a permanent loss of mobility
- Hire services to help you at home with your responsibilities

It's simple, you can use the lump-sum payment however you want!

Give yourself peace of mind – get a medical second opinion

A critical illness diagnosis can have major implications for you and your loved ones. When you purchase Transition coverage, you also get unlimited access to the MediGuide Medical Second Opinion service at no additional charge.

This service gives you access to a group of expert physicians who can confirm the initial diagnosis and recommend the treatment plan best adapted to your situation – a reassuring second opinion.
